Highly entertaining for any event! The waiters would entertain for at least an hour during the meal. The "show" starts with them emerging with wine to pour for the guests, this is an excuse for our actors to interact, in character, with the blissfully unaware attendees. The waiters are quite subtle to begin with. Then the Maitre D' character blows their whistle to get their staff to line up for an introduction of themselves. The Maitre D' can also make a specially tailored speech about the party and its guests which has been previously put together using information from a questionnaire filled by the client. Then it's back to work for the waiters who, as their cover is now blown, are braver than ever. The close interaction with the guests is now added to by spontaneously bursting into a song, poem, or something of the like, to the delight of the whole room. After that the Maitre D' has had enough and it is time for another line up, that also entails a finishing act. The whole show is carried out with the guests still being able to eat, drink, and talk to each other.

The metamorphosis of a man and a six-foot balloon in an original 5-7minute cabaret show.

As the balloon inflates Bruce walks around the balloon taking off his suit and tie and gets down to his skin tight lycra wrestling outfit, all choreographed to music. Once he is completely inside the balloon he can distort the balloon to the beat of the music and do a few moves. The finale is a countdown on the music 5 4 3 2 1 and on 0 , he bursts the balloon on purpose to step forward completely dressed as Elvis Presley !!!!!

If there are no space restrictions the act is 7 minutes, if there is its 5 minutes long, ideally a 3 metre cube is good, 3metres high x3metres wide x3metres deep, but he can perform in any space, its just a shorter show. Tech wise Bruce will require access to one 13 amp power supply and one CD playback.

The Bungee Run

How far can you get before the bungee snatches you back?

Think of this game like something you would see on one of those shows where families run through obstacles, and will put you in the mind of wipe out. The two contestants, on the bungee run, put on padded belts, which are attached to strong bungee cords. They then run as fast as they can while carrying a Velcro baton, which they quickly stick it to the central barrier before the bungee cord snatches them back to the start.

With this game the further you run, against the pull of the bungee, the higher you score. It fun to play and even more fun to watch. You can get guests of all ages involved in the fun!

Although you get more points, the further you run, the tighter the bungee gets, pulling the contestants away from their goal. Given the inflated, unstable running surface, the fun keeps going as long as the runners do. Runners struggle to keep their balance and make their way to the end. While you wait or while you just watch, you get to share in the fun of watching and laughing while the battle to reach the end and place the Velcro baton continues. It is not as easy as it looks and it does not look easy. Bouncing off the walls has never been as fun as it is with the Bungee Run.

A bucking bronco is one of the most popular pieces of entertainment equipment for theme parties, balls, promotional events and company fun days in London and the home counties. It not only gives hours of fun and laughter it also offers a unique form of competition.

At Creative Events we have some really unusual items such as a Bucking Rugby Ball, Bucking Reindeer, a Crocodile, Horse, Pig, Bull, Bottle, Can and even a Bucking Broomstick.
